Ujamaa Marketplace at America's Black Holocaust Museum

On Sunday, December 29, 2024, in collaboration with Lila Allen of Papyrus & Charms (bottom right photo) and The Bronzeville Collective MKE, America's Black Holocaust Museum (ABHM) presented the Ujamaa Marketplace, a community event featuring more than 20 local makers and creatives. Attendees enjoyed shopping with local entrepreneurs, live poetry, door prizes, a children's activity corner, and more.

The Ujamaa Marketplace is the newest addition to Milwaukee's continued tradition of citywide Kwanzaa celebrations, and the first Kwanzaa event held by ABHM. "Ujamaa" is the fourth principle of Kwanzaa, which translates to "cooperative economics." This event was curated with community in mind - a way for people of all ages to learn about the importance of this beautiful week-long celebration of African American culture and history.

Milwaukee was one of the first cities in the U.S. to celebrate Kwanzaa. The holiday was created in 1966 Dr. Maulana Karenga and its first celebration here was just one year later.

Nia Obotette redefines 'the game' for young readers through sports and representation

Caught in a moment with her six lively nieces and nephews—her biggest inspiration—award-winning author Nia Obotette, a.k.a. "NiaTheAuthor," is changing the face of children's literature. Through her sports-focused stories, from hockey to triathlons, she's showing kids they belong in every space, even the ones people never thought of looking for them in.

"My goal is to empower kids to see themselves as limitless and to encourage adults to consider the possibilities they may have overlooked," said Obotette. Her stories are reshaping narratives and opening doors for young minds to explore, dream, and achieve beyond boundaries.

Gov. Tony Evers creates new violence prevention office, in wake of school shooting

Wisconsin's Democratic governor on Tuesday, January 14, 2025, created a new state office dedicated to preventing gun violence, a month after a school shooting not far from the state Capitol.

Gov. Tony Evers also called on the Republican-controlled Legislature to pass a series of gun control and public safety measures, saying reducing violence should be a "shared priority that transcends politics."

The Legislature has already rejected numerous gun control measures put forward by Evers, including universal background checks for gun purchases. But Evers said the shooting at Abundant Life Christian School last December 2024, demonstrated the need for lawmakers to act.

"Reducing crime and violence should be an issue that receives earnest bipartisan support," Evers said at a news conference surrounded by gun control advocates, Democratic lawmakers and the mayor and police chief of Madison who responded to last month's school shooting.

Evers signed an executive order creating a statewide office of violence prevention. He said the office will work with local partners including law enforcement agencies, nonprofits, school districts and gun shop owners with the goal of reducing gun violence.

The office will also work to develop public education campaigns and promote safer communities, Evers said. It will also award grants targeting a reduction in violence, in particular gun violence, to school districts, firearm dealers, law enforcement agencies, nonprofits and government agencies.

Evers announced $10 million in federal funding for the office. He said his state budget that will be submitted to the Legislature in Febuary 2025, will request more state funding to continue the office over the next two years.

Evers also said he would be proposing a sweeping package of gun violence and public safety measures.

Republican majorities in the Legislature shrank after the November election, leading Evers and Democrats to say they hoped for more bipartisanship and consideration of ideas that have been summarily rejected in the past. But following the Dec. 16, 2024, shooting at the Abundant Life Christian School in Madison that left a student, teacher and the 15-year-old shooter dead, Republicans have not voiced support for any gun control measures backed by Democrats.

Wisconsin polls have repeatedly shown high public support for a variety of gun control measures.

Evers in 2019 called a special session of the Legislature to pass a universal gun background check bill and a "red flag" proposal that would allow judges to take guns away from people determined to be a risk to themselves or others. Republicans immediately adjourned without debating the measures. It was the first of a dozen special sessions Evers has called since 2019, none of which have been successful.

Democrats have reintroduced those and more than two dozen other gun safety bills over the past six years, but Republicans have repeatedly refused to take them up. Republicans, instead, have introduced bills that would expand access to guns and discussed arming teachers. Evers in 2022 vetoed Republican bills that would have allowed holders of concealed carry permits to have firearms in vehicles on school grounds and in churches located on the grounds of a private school.

Opinion: Martin Luther King Jr.'s message just as relevant in the age of Trump

By: Adam Clark

What does it mean to celebrate the life of Martin Luther King, Jr., in the age of Trump? Too many Americans see the King legacy as focused on the racial segregation of America's distant past but not the political and moral quagmires of today. With the increasing polarization and political fracturing of American society, can the life and legacy of King remain a viable resource in a country whose president's brand identity, "Make America Great Again," invokes a past where blacks were not full citizens, women were marginalized and sexual minorities suppressed? How can the grand legacy of King address the tribalism of contemporary culture?

King is rightly credited as being a key leader in getting blacks the right to vote and ending segregation in the South, but those achievements, as important as they are, don't capture the entirety of King's contribution. King's mission was to redeem the soul of America; to loosen America from her historic shackles and push her to live out her highest purpose. It is this aspect of the King legacy, the revisioning of our life together, that has largely disappeared from public and political life.

King consistently pointed out there's a gap between American ideals and American reality. America claims to be about freedom, justice and equality, but her reality is far different. What King called for was for America to be true to her own commitments. He fervently believed America's history of slavery and segregation need not be her destiny. History is not fated or determined, and contradictions of life are not final. Humans create history, and can inject new meaning and dignity into the veins of civilization. The birthing of a new society is an organic, not mechanical, process.

Democracies are either growing or decaying. The idea of "Making America Great" by going back to some fictionalized past is completely against King's vision. The idea is not to romanticize or preserve a flawed democracy by going back, but to evolve or grow a better democracy out of our present conditions.

King reminds us that the goal of the struggle was not only the right to sit at the front of the bus or to vote; but to give birth to a new society based on love and justice. As we face an impeachment trial, an intensification of the "War on Terror" and another deeply polarizing election, I think King's legacy grows increasingly relevant. In his last book, he raised the question "where do we go from here?" The world was growing more and more interdependent; nevertheless, there were strong antagonistic forces keeping people divided. King's message was, despite the reactionary forces that keep us divided, we need each other.

King saw a hidden wholeness beneath the brokenness and division in human life. He didn't see our choices as being between black versus white, Republican versus Democrat, gay versus straight; for him the choice was clear: chaos or community. We can live together as brothers and sisters or perish together as fools.

Americans must "undergo a radical revolution in values where we transform from a thing-centered society to a person-centered society." It is possible, King conceded, that America is so wedded to a death instinct that she locks herself into spiraling patterns of division and self-destruction. The catastrophic is a live option. But King called us to be more courageous, he reminded us that while elections are important, what's more important is "what kind of democracy are we trying to become," just and inclusive, or tribal and restrictive? He called us to shed the scales from our eyes and see the hidden wholeness, which he referred to as beloved community. Beloved community is both within and before us, and with this awareness we are challenged to be able to hew out stones of hope from mountains of despair.

BUILDING THE FUTURE:

HONORING OUR LEGACY THROUGH

CAMP FELLOWSHIP YOUTH RETREAT

Honorees of Men of Grace Banquet Milwaukee 2024

Milwaukee recently celebrated a momentous event at the Men of Grace banquet, where 18 extraordinary gentlemen aged 90 and above were honored for their lifetime contributions to the community. Their combined contributions span decades of military service, civil rights advocacy, mentorship, and leadership. These men are true legends whose legacy we must continue to build upon; and you can join us!

WE BUILD ON THE LEGACY OF:

Rueben Harpole

Distinguished Academic Administrator, veteran, and community leader credited for more than 25 community centers and programs promoting education.

Dr. William Finlayson

The first Black OB-GYN at a local Milwaukee hospital, he boasts a distinguished career as a pioneering community leader, advocate, and the founder of Milwaukee's first Black-owned bank.

James Brown

A dedicated army veteran with a 30-year career at A.O. Smith, currently supporting local Black-owned businesses through his philanthropic work.

Charlie Weddle

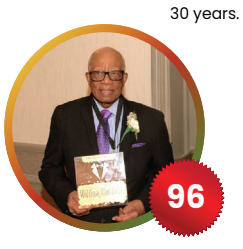
The son of a Southern sharecropper, he rose to become a Hall of Fame race car driver and a successful business owner for more than 30 years.

Dr. Rev. Russell Williamson

A cherished and dedicated Pastor of Zion Hill Missionary Baptist Church for 38 years, whom also is a former teacher and enjoyed a lengthy career with the U.S. Postal Service.

Vernon Townsend

A awarded Army veteran and business owner, recognized nationally as a World War II hero and honored as the "Hero of the Game" by the Milwaukee Brewers.



William Wattleton

Military veteran and dedicated church member who championed workplace civil rights, pursuing his battle all the way to the U.S. District Court.

A VISION FOR TOMORROW: CAMP FELLOWSHIP

Drawing inspiration from the Men of Grace and an eye towards the future, this new initiative—Camp Fellowship (CF)—is being launched to carry forward this legacy. This innovative opportunity will serve as a central hub for youth development and community engagement, set against the backdrop of a serene natural environment.

WHAT CAMP FELLOWSHIP WILL OFFER:

OUTDOOR EXPERIENCES

A dedicated campground will offer immersive activities like fishing, archery, farming, hiking, and team-building to enhance leadership skills, encourage collaboration, and promote appreciation for nature.

CHARACTER DEVELOPMENT

Workshops and mentorship programs will focus on building self-esteem, conflict resolution, and service-oriented leadership.

SKILL BUILDING

CF will provide hands-on training in vocational trades, including construction, plumbing, and technology. These skills not only prepare youth for successful careers but also create avenues for them to give back to the community.

COMMUNITY INTEGRATION

Beyond its offerings for youth, CF will serve as a resource for families, volunteers, and organizations committed to uplifting the community.

COMMUNITY EFFORT & OPPORTUNITY

Camp Fellowship is not just a program or opportunity —it's a movement to empower the next generation. To achieve this ambitious vision, we need the support of individuals, churches, community groups and organizations who share our passion for creating positive change.

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN HELP:

DONATE

Financial contributions will help establish and sustain Camp Fellowship's operations. Real estate donations, including properties needing renovation, are also welcome and will be used as training grounds for youth skill-building programs.

VOLUNTEER

Whether you're a tradesperson, a mentor, or a community leader, your time and expertise are invaluable.

PARTNER

We're seeking like-minded community groups, churches, and organizations to join our mission and help us expand Camp Fellowship's reach and impact.

SPREAD THE WORD

Share our vision with others and help us grow our network of supporters.

Outreach Community Health Centers: Commemorating Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

As we celebrate the legacy of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., this holiday, we are reminded of the values of equality, justice, and service to others that Dr. King fought for so passionately for. Dr. King's vision of a fair and just society, where all individuals have access to opportunity and resources, continues to inspire us in our mission to provide compassionate, accessible healthcare to every person, regardless of background, status, or circumstance.

Healthcare is a fundamental human right, and it is our responsibility as a health center to ensure that all individuals, especially those in underserved communities, receive the care they need to lead healthy, fulfilling lives. Dr. King believed that true equality is not just about civil rights, but about the ability to access what one needs to thrive — including quality healthcare. This is the core of what drives us every day as we work toward breaking down barriers to health access and improving health outcomes for all.

As we look ahead to the year, we are optimistic about the positive changes we can make in our community. We are committed to expanding access, improving patient care, and enhancing our services with a focus on equity and inclusivity. In the face of challenges, we are confident that our collective efforts will lead to progress, as we continue to build stronger, healthier communities.

On this important day, we reaffirm our commitment to Dr. King's vision and to providing exceptional care to those who need it most. We stand united in our mission to create a future where healthcare is not a privilege, but a right for all.

IN THE COMMUNITY

'I Have A Dream' - address at the March on Washington, DC on August 28, 1963

"I am happy to join with you today in what will go down in history as the greatest demonstration for freedom in the history of our nation.

"Five score years ago, a great American, in whose symbolic shadow we stand signed the Emancipation Proclamation. This momentous decree came as a great beacon light of hope to millions of Negro slaves who had been seared in the flames of withering injustice. It came as a joyous daybreak to end the long night of captivity.

"But one hundred years later, we must face the tragic fact that the Negro is still not free. One hundred years later, the life of the Negro is still sadly crippled by the manacles of segregation and the chains of discrimination. One hundred years later, the Negro lives on a lonely island of poverty in the midst of a vast ocean of material prosperity. One hundred years later, the Negro is still languishing in the corners of American society and finds himself an exile in his own land. So we have come here today to dramatize an appalling condition.

"In a sense we have come to our nation's capital to cash a check. When the architects of our republic wrote the magnificent words of the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence, they were signing a promissory note to which every American was to fall heir. This note was a promise that all men would be guaranteed the inalienable rights of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

Web Photo

Dr. King at the March on Washington, August 28, 1963.

"It is obvious today that America has defaulted on this promissory note insofar as her citizens of color are concerned. Instead of honoring this sacred obligation, America has given the Negro people a bad check which has come back marked 'insufficient funds.' But we refuse to believe that the bank of justice is bankrupt. We refuse to believe that there are insufficient funds in the great vaults of opportunity of this nation. So we have come to cash this check -- a check that will give us upon demand the riches of freedom and the security of justice. We have also come to this hallowed spot to remind America of the fierce urgency of now. This is no time to engage in the luxury of cooling off or to take the tranquilizing drug of gradualism. Now is the time to rise from the dark and desolate valley of segregation to the sunlit path of racial justice. Now is the time to open the doors of opportunity to all of God's children. Now is the time to lift our nation from the quicksands of racial injustice to the solid rock of brotherhood.

"It would be fatal for the nation to overlook the urgency of the moment and to underestimate the determination of the Negro. This sweltering summer of the Negro's legitimate discontent will not pass until there is an invigorating autumn of freedom and equality. Nineteen sixty-three is not an end, but a beginning. Those who hope that the Negro needed to blow off steam and will now be content will have a rude awakening if the nation returns to business as usual. There will be neither rest nor tranquility in America until the Negro is granted his citizenship rights. The whirlwinds of revolt will continue to shake the foundations of our nation until the bright day of justice emerges.

But there is something that I must say to my people who stand on the warm threshold which leads into the palace of justice. In the process of gaining our rightful place we must not be guilty of wrongful deeds. Let us not seek to satisfy our thirst for freedom by drinking from the cup of bitterness and hatred.

"We must forever conduct our struggle on the high plane of dignity and discipline.

"We must not allow our creative protest to degenerate into physical violence. Again and again we must rise to the majestic heights of meeting physical force with soul force. The marvelous new militancy which has engulfed the Negro community must not lead us to distrust of all white people, for many of our white brothers, as evidenced by their presence here today, have come to realize that their destiny is tied up with our destiny and their freedom is inextricably bound to our freedom. We cannot walk alone.

"And as we walk, we must make the pledge that we shall march ahead. We cannot turn back. There are those who are asking the devotees of civil rights, "When will you be satisfied?" We can never be satisfied as long as our bodies, heavy with the fatigue of travel, cannot gain lodging in the motels of the highways and the hotels of the cities. We cannot be satisfied as long as the Negro's basic mobility is from a smaller ghetto to a larger one. We can never be satisfied as long as a Negro in Mississippi cannot vote and a Negro in New York believes he has nothing for which to vote. No, no, we are not satisfied, and we will not be satisfied until justice rolls down like waters and righteousness like a mighty stream.

"I am not unmindful that some of you have come here out of great trials and tribulations. Some of you have come fresh from narrow cells. Some of you have come from areas where your quest for freedom left you battered by the storms of persecution and staggered by the winds of police brutality. You have been the veterans of creative suffering. Continue to work with the faith that unearned suffering is redemptive.

"Go back to Mississippi, go back to Alabama, go back to Georgia, go back to Louisiana, go back to the slums and ghettos of our northern cities, knowing that somehow this situation can and will be changed. Let us not wallow in the valley of despair.

'Dry January': A trend worth the hype

There's something about a global trend that excites the public on a level extending far beyond the self. It demonstrates there is power in the collective. This feels true even for a trend like 'Dry January' that aims to promote individual health and wellness; although a whole culture can benefit when more people drink less alcohol.

'Dry January' origins and benefits

'Dry January' is a public health initiative from Alcohol Change UK that began in 2012, which asks people to stop drinking for one month. In many ways, 'Dry January' is about introducing conversations about drinking culture and inspiring positive change. 'Dry January' has become increasingly popular over the years as people are eager to reap the many benefits of not drinking or taking a break from drinking. According to Microsoft Network (MSN), benefits include, but are not limited to:

- Better sleep
- More energy
- Saving money
- Clearer skin
- Improved concentration

You may choose to participate in 'Dry January' because you over-indulged during the holidays, because you want to examine and challenge your relationship with alcohol, or because you want to be part of a popular trend. No matter what your reason for participating may be, the benefits are sure to make you glad you gave 'Dry January' a try.

Building new habits and navigating challenges

Breaking old habits and forming new ones takes time and patience. If you liked the positive changes you felt during 'Dry January,' keep it going to build new habits. Find places to socialize other than a bar and find activities that don't involve alcohol.

That said, participating in a challenge such as 'Dry January' may bring up feelings and emotions otherwise not expected. If you're struggling to make it through the month without drinking and are experiencing symptoms of withdrawal, please seek professional help. It may be indicative of an alcohol use disorder, which can have serious side effects if you stop drinking abruptly.

'I Have A Dream'

"I say to you today, my friends, that in spite of the difficulties and frustrations of the moment, I still have a dream. It is a dream deeply rooted in the American dream.

"I have a dream that one day this nation will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed: 'We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal.'

"I have a dream that one day on the red hills of Georgia the sons of former slaves and the sons of former slave owners will be able to sit down together at a table of brotherhood.

"I have a dream that one day even the state of Mississippi, a desert state, sweltering with the heat of injustice and oppression, will be transformed into an oasis of freedom and justice.

"I have a dream that my four children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character.

"I have a dream today.

"I have a dream that one day the state of Alabama, whose governor's lips are presently dripping with the words of interposition and nullification, will be transformed into a situation where little black boys and black girls will be able to join hands with little white boys and white girls and walk together as sisters and brothers.

"I have a dream today.

"I have a dream that one day every valley shall be exalted, every hill and mountain shall be made low, the rough places will be made plain, and the crooked places will be made straight, and the glory of the Lord shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together.

"This is our hope. This is the faith with which I return to the South. With this faith we will be able to hew out of the mountain of despair a stone of hope. With this faith we will be able to transform the jangling discords of our nation into a beautiful symphony of brotherhood. With this faith we will be able to work together, to pray together, to struggle together, to go to jail together, to stand up for freedom together, knowing that we will be free one day.

"This will be the day when all of God's children will be able to sing with a new meaning, 'My country, 'tis of thee, sweet land of liberty, of thee I sing. Land where my fathers died, land of the pilgrim's pride, from every mountainside, let freedom ring'.

"And if America is to be a great nation this must become true. So let freedom ring from the prodigious hilltops of New Hampshire. Let freedom ring from the mighty mountains of New York. Let freedom ring from the heightening Alleghenies of Pennsylvania!

"Let freedom ring from the snowcapped Rockies of Colorado!

"Let freedom ring from the curvaceous peaks of California!

"But not only that; let freedom ring from Stone Mountain of Georgia!

"Let freedom ring from Lookout Mountain of Tennessee!

"Let freedom ring from every hill and every molehill of Mississippi. From every mountainside, let freedom ring.

"When we let freedom ring, when we let it ring from every village and every hamlet, from every state and every city, we will be able to speed up that day when all of God's children, black men and white men, Jews and Gentiles, Protestants and Catholics, will be able to join hands and sing in the words of the old Negro spiritual, 'Free at last! Free at last! Thank God Almighty, we are free at last'!"
